Page 2. Rules of Play

The Club shall adhere to the Rules of the RCCC, excepting any Rules or Bye-Laws adopted by the Club, which shall take precedence.

1. These rules apply to all competitions of Tarbolton Curling Club.
2. All players listed in the syllabus as playing in any club game shall be responsible for their own ice and, if unable to play, must themselves obtain a substitute to take their place. If possible, players should let their skip know the name of their substitute in advance of the game.
3. Members listed as substitutes should be contacted first. If no one on the substitutes list is available to play, then players in other rinks should be approached. If possible the substitute should not have a higher position in a league rink than the player replaced – though it is acknowledged that this is not always possible. If no replacement can be found within the club a non-member may be invited to play.
4. Substitutes shall be allowed up to a maximum of three. At least one member of the original rink must play.
5. If there is one substitute he or she must lead; if two, they must play lead and second; if three, they must play lead, second and third. Rules specific to individual competitions must be observed.
6. If no substitute can be obtained then the member unable to play will be liable for his or her ice money. There will be no exception to this rule. Any member finding themselves in this situation should let their skip know.
7. If a team is a player short then that team will be penalised by two shots, which should be added to the opposing team's score before the card is signed at the end of the game (except the John Dodd, Dr Morris, and McFadzean Cup, where there is no penalty).
8. Any team with a player turning up more than 30 minutes from the start of the session will lose two shots.
9. No team may play with fewer than three players. If, 30 minutes from the start of the session or from the time when the opposing team is ready to play (whichever is later), a team has fewer than three players it will forfeit the game. The opposing team will be credited with two points, five ends and three shots difference.
10. If a member who has agreed to substitute does not appear, then he or she will be liable for the ice money.
